The Postman's Plea . . .

Persons receiving The Alumnus who are changing post offices, box numbers, or street addresses with the opening of school or for any other reason are urged to report such changes as soon as possible. The only way the magazine can be received promptly after a change of address is by sending a postal card to the Bureau of Alumni Service giving the new address.

Always popular during summer quarters is the Women's Gymnasium and the adjoining Swimming Pool Building with its 90 foot long tile-lined swimming pool . . .

Branch School Opens

Branch Summer Schools of Iowa State Teachers College opened June 5 at Algona, Missouri Valley, and Red Oak, Iowa, upon authorization of the three schools by the Iowa State Board of Education.

Director of the branch school at Algona is Dr. Selmer C. Larson, professor of education at Teachers college; at Missouri Valley, Dr. J. B. Paul, director of the research bureau; and at Red Oak, Miss Lou A. Shepherd, associate professor of education with the extension service.

Twelve-week sessions opened June 5 and will close August 24, and the six-week sessions began June 5 and will end July 13.

Journalists Serve "Hot Copy"

With the "Hot Copy" dinner held in the Commons party room Thursday, May 10, 6 p. m., the traditional journalism banquet, discontinued in 1942, was revived.

A journalistic theme was carried out in both the program and the decorations, with invitations issued in the form of a copy assignment sheet and admission by an official press card. The program, centered around the "city desk," was presented from the center of the dining room with typical Old Gold and College Eye procedure as the basis for the various skits.

Rosemary Kepler, editor of the Old Gold, and Gladene Hansen, editor of the College Eye, acted as mistresses of ceremonies.

George H. Holmes, director of the Bureau of Publications, concluded the program with an address on "The Responsibility of Leadership in the College Press."

Special guests included business men from Waterloo and Cedar Falls, high school journalism student representatives, Teachers College department heads, editors and associates of nearby newspapers, and the staffs of Teachers College publications.

College "Lets Down Hair"

An All-College picnic for students, faculty, clerical workers and members of the maintenance staff was declared by an "official proclamation" resplendent with "Whereases" and "wherefores" and announced by President Malcolm Price for Friday, May 14, at 2 p. m.

Classes were dismissed and offices closed, and a pep program, planned under the direction of President Price and Carl H. Erbe, professor of government, was presented in the college auditorium.

After the assembly, students, administrative officials and faculty members alike "let down their hair" and participated in races and softball tournaments at the ball grounds.

An outdoor "down-the-line" picnic supper climaxed the day's activities.

May Music Festival

The May Festival, annual culminating event of the music department, was held in the college auditorium May 3 and 4.

The orchestra concert on May 3, under the direction of Dr. Edward Kurtz, head of the music department, featured a group of numbers conducted by students from the orchestration class of Carl Anton Wirth, assistant professor of theory. These students, who also made the arrangements and scored the parts for the orchestra, included: Shirley Anliker, Mary Jean Hurlbut and Ruth Larson.

The Womens Chorus under the direction of Harald B. Holst, assistant professor of voice, presented their concert on May 5, following which the chorus broadcast selections from their program.

Dr. Schaefer Heads Linguists

Dr. Joseph Schaefer, associate professor of German at Teachers College, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Iowa chapter of American Association of Teachers of German at the annual meeting at Grinnell College, it was announced early in May.

Louis De Vries, head of the department of German at Iowa State college at Ames, was elected president.

Teachers of Latin, French, German, and Spanish from universities, colleges and large high schools attended the meeting.

"Thanks for Writing," Says Monty

Dr. John W. Charles, professor of education, recently received an answer to a letter written to Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

Field Marshal Montgomery thanked Dr. Charles for his letter and good wishes and stated that he looked forward to visiting the United States after the war, and that he had many friends in the United States fighting forces.

The letter was written by a lieutenant-colonel, an aide to the field marshal, and was inclosed in a thin manilla envelope on the outside of which was a reminder to slit the envelope across the top in order that it might be used again.

Nancy Price Married

Nancy Price, daughter of President and Mrs. Malcolm Price, was married to Lt. (j.g.) Howard R. Thompson, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Thompson, at 8 p. m., May 2.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Price for faculty and friends. Dr. M. R. Thompson is head of the social science department.

"Teach World - Mindedness," Dr. Bodein

THE SIXTY-EIGHTH annual spring commencement exercises at 5 p.m., May 27, completed a week of graduation activities for 129 students receiving degrees and diplomas at the Iowa State Teachers College.

Dr. Vernon Bodein, director of religious activities at Teachers College, delivered the address "For Whom the Bell Tolls," expressing his belief that the geography of isolationism is gone; that we are next-door neighbors to the rest of the world.

"Use Power for Peace"

"As graduates," he addressed the students, "you are going out into two worlds: one dead, and the other struggling to be born." In this new world we must know that we are not alone, not separate entities, but bound together. We find that when life touches one, it touches all.

"Even the most powerful nations," stated Dr. Bodein, "are coming to realize that war decides only one thing—who has the greatest power. We now have a chance to exercise this power for a second time in a generation. If we fail, war will certainly come again."

Dr. Bodein reminded the graduates that "as teachers you will deal with the ultimates of life, and since the truly liberated man of tomorrow must be a cosmopolitan, you can begin at once the process of training boys and girls to be world-minded.

"The generation represented by your college professors has been called a lost generation. You, on the other hand, belong to the generation of potential builders, builders for a better tomorrow. See that you build it well."

"The Final Test"

The Baccalaureate address, "The Final Examination," was delivered by the Reverend Charles Wesley Brashares, Bishop of the Des Moines Area Methodist church Sunday, May 27, at 10:30 a.m.

Reverend Brashares declared that "the final examinations of life do not come all at once like those in school. Again and again life will give you the final test of whether you can go on living the ideals of teaching, the ideals of making the better world of which you dreamed while at study in college."

We of today are about to face an examination of tremendous significance. The chaos of the present times and the war through which we have just gone are the result of a moral breakdown.

As teachers, you will be responsible for the establishment of attitudes on which the world may proceed to a new faith.

"We conquer for righteousness," Dr. Brashares stated, "but when the war is over we are too apt to forget what it was all about. We must continue to hunger and thirst after righteousness when the guns are silent."

Dr. Price Presents Awards

Awards and scholarships were presented by Dr. Malcolm Price, President.

Purple and Old Gold awards presented to degree students for conspicuous achievement in particular areas were: Winifred Ann Garver, Fort Dodge, debate and oratory; Ydun Jensen, Kimballton, dramatics, and Miriam F. Hansen, Cedar Falls, music.

Undergraduates to receive awards and scholarships at the commencement exercises included: Betty Dockwell, Cedar Falls, C. A. Boehmler and Katherine S. Boehmler Memorial Scholarship awarded to a worthy student from Cedar Falls;

Mary Anneberg, Carroll, Jim Rasmussen, Waterloo, Michael O'Rourke, Cedar Rapids, Brindley Debate Scholarships awarded to winners of the Brindley Debate Tournament;

Lucille Mae Bong, Cherokee, Alice O. Gordon Award for outstanding Scholarship in the field of kindergarten-primary education;

Lois Frederick, Marion, the Furniss and Mary W. Lambert Award for outstanding scholarship in mathematics;

Shirley Butler, Liscomb, and Doris Nelson, Audubon, the Bertha Martin Memorial Scholarship awarded for outstanding scholarship in dramatics; Phylis Val Jeanne Fairlie, Janesville, Sigma Alpha Iota Scholarship awarded for outstanding scholarship in music.

New Faculty Faces at Teachers College

Dr. Dwight Curtis, B.A., M.A. and Ph.D., University of Iowa, assumed his duties as new director of the department of teaching at Teachers College with the opening of the summer term.

Dr. Curtis replaces Dr. Guy Wagner, who became director of the instructional materials laboratory, an entirely new service to be offered by Teachers College to public schools of Iowa.

Dr. Curtis has been director of the teacher training school at Nebraska State Teachers College, Chadron, Neb., since 1943. He has taught in rural and city schools of Missouri, and in the University School at Iowa City.

Miss J. Elizabeth Brown, B.S. Kansas State Teachers College, Pittsburg, will become an instructor in the department of education in the fall.

Miss Brown is at present at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, where she expects to receive her Ph.M. in August. She has taught in the schools in Clay County, Jewel City, Ellis and Hutchinson, Kan.

Miss Nellie D. Hampton, B.S., Central Missouri State Teachers College, Warrensburg, will become instructor in the department of education at Teachers College during the fall term.

Miss Hampton is now doing graduate work in reading at the State University of Iowa where she plans to receive her M.A. in August.

She has taught in the schools of Centertown, and Cedar City, Missouri, and the laboratory schools of the Central Missouri State Teachers College.

Miss Wanda Boumann, B.S., State Teachers College, Oskosh, Wis., M.S., University of Wisconsin, became instructor of sixth grade in the Campus School this summer, replacing Ethel Fitzsimmons, who is county supervisor of elementary schools in Madera, California.

Miss Boumann has had experience as a teacher in the intermediate grade schools at Sheboygan, Wis. Since her graduation from college she has been active in Girl Scout Leadership.

Waldemar Gjerde, B.A., Ausburg Teachers College, Minneapolis, Minn., M.A., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, will be supervisor of the junior high school science department in the Campus School.

Mr. Gjerde has been superintendent of schools in St. Claire, Minn.

Miss Lucette Sharp, B.S., Steven F. Austen State Teachers College, Nacodoches, Tex., Ph.M., University of Wisconsin, Madison, will be supervisor of second grade of Lowell school in Waterloo this fall.

Miss Sharp is supervisor of a college dormitory in Michigan this summer.

Miss Martha Fisher, B.A., Michigan State College, East Lansing, M.A., Columbia, will become instructor of art at Teachers College during the fall term.

Miss Fisher is now supervisor at the Oak Park, Ill. schools.

Miss Pansy Mills, B.A., University of Indiana, Bloomington, M. A., Columbia, is serving as instructor of art at Teachers College during the summer term.

Miss Mills was art supervisor in the Richmond, Indiana, public schools prior to her appointment here.

Dr. Cameron Paulin, research assistant at the University of Chicago and former head of the department of ceramics and design at Ontario College at Toronto, Ontario, Canada, is a new assistant professor of art at the college.

Dr. Paulin teaches courses in art design,

● Ferne Rapp is crowned Queen of May by Dr. Max L. Durfee.

Faculty Chooses Queen

With a crown of spring flowers as her royal insignia, Miss Ferne Rapp, of Northwood, was proclaimed "Queen of May" by judges Dr. L. V. Douglas, head of the department of commercial education, Dr. Max L. Durfee, health director, and Frank W. Hill, assistant professor of music, at the all-college spring formal dance held in the Commons ballroom, May 5.

Sharing honors as the queen's attendants were Mary Esther Spitzmiller, of Middletown, Eunice Tjepkes of Waterloo, and Mary Frances Wombolt of Red Oak.

Don Strickland and his orchestra provided music for the 125 couples attending the dance. A pink and lavender color scheme was used in the flowers, stage decorations, and dance programs.

Special guests included Miss Mary Haight, Miss Elizabeth Emerson, Mrs. Clara Wheeler, Mrs. Lillian Stewart and Mrs. A. Anderson.

"Clang, Clang," Goes Trolley

It isn't often that a Teachers College alumnus takes over the management of a municipal street transportation system. Still less frequently is it found that one of our alumni college presidents does the same thing. That is, however, just what has happened in the case of Dr. Earl Roadman (B.A. '04), president of Morningside College.

When the Sioux City Service Company sold out its interests in compliance with the so-called "death sentence" clause of the federal utility holding company act, Morningside College purchased the utility company.

The college was high among 15 bidders when bids were opened at New York City. So it was that Dr. Roadman returned from New York the president of a college that owned 67 street cars, 10 motor busses, 52 miles of track, and an advertising contract for placards in and on the vehicles.

Germans Poor Hosts

Pvt. Theodore Adams (student '32-'36) was among the prisoners liberated by the Yanks early in April. He is now back in the States. He had been held at the prison camp identified as Stalag 9 C, south of Leipzig.

He wrote his wife of his liberation on April 16 from a French hospital where he was then confined. The letter was written with his left hand because of a wound in his right arm.

Pvt. Adams was serving with the 106th Infantry division when the German breakthrough occurred on December 16. At that time he was reported missing in action and later known to be a prisoner of war. When he arrived home he reported that the Germans were "poor hosts." They had a yen for putting the wounded near military objectives in hopes of saving their German hides.

Mrs. Adams resides in Waterloo. The couple have two children, a daughter, Julia Ann, 12, and a son, Marc, 17 months.

"Eye" Sets Eight-Year "All-American" Record

The 1944-45 College Eye was awarded All-American honors this spring by the Associated Collegiate Press. This is the eighth consecutive year that the "Eye" has received the top ranking in the national judging contest.

The paper, which was rated "superior" for completeness of news coverage, skill in writing news material, content of stories, news style, leads, headlines and topography, was one of the nine high schools and college newspapers to be awarded All-American honors by the national association.

Particular approval for the "feeling for news value" displayed by the editors was expressed by the critics.

G. H. Holmes is adviser for the College Eye. Gladene Hansen has served as executive editor with Beverly Smith, managing editor and Jean Jungen as co-editor during the spring term and copy editor for the past year. Ida Mae Davis has been business manager and Peggy Boemecke has been both circulation and advertising manager.

The "Eye" has had for its objectives: "the presentation of unbiased and impartial news to all those interested in the college; the creation of a wholesome college atmosphere and support of the best traditions of the institution; the

Joan Piper Teaches the Blind to Swim, Play

"Blindness is not considered a handicap by the children at the state school at Vinton; just an "inconvenience." This is the report of Miss Joan Piper of Madison, South Dakota, Teachers College student, who has been an instructor of physical education at the Iowa School for the Blind for the past year.

"You'll find no sad or dispirited faces in my classes," she says. "Instead you'll find a group of happy, courageous youngsters who enjoy an active session of swimming as much as or perhaps more than any child with normal eyesight."

"My teaching objectives," continued Miss Piper, "are much the same as those of any physical education instructor—to enable each child to enjoy experiences of the big muscle activity type which will develop him physically, mentally, emotionally and socially."

Although her yearly program is planned

very much the same as that of any physical education teacher, Miss Piper's methods of teaching have to be modified to include very little personal demonstration. Each swimming stroke must be taught by manipulation, with the teacher moving the child's arms and legs. Moreover, while their keen hearing makes it easier to teach them tap dancing, it is still necessary for the teacher to guide their feet for the first movements.

Team sports, very much enjoyed by these children, include such games as kick ball, a modified form of softball in which a soccer ball is rolled rather than tossed, and kicked rather than batted. A partially-sighted person can "connect" when it is rolled, but a blind child places the ball in front of him and kicks it. Bases are run as in softball—a sighted person running with a blind one.

Bat ball was Miss Piper's own idea for introducing the use of the bat. Because the ● Teachers College physical education major Joan Piper teaching Marilyn Minner, Council Bluffs, to dive into the pool at the Iowa School for the Blind at Vinton. degree of vision varies, each child handles the bat differently.

Chasing games, such as "pom pom pull-away," "midnight," and others are also played.

Also included in Miss Piper's program are activities of the following types: individual and dual sports such as swimming, roller skating, and equipment work with the chinning bar, traveling rings, parallel bars, Swedish ladder, balance beams, and rope climbing; stunts; track and field sports such as standing broad jump, running broad jump, high jump, one-hundred yard dash (shortened if necessary) and the softball throw; rope jumping and rhythms such as singing games, folk dancing, tap dances and the fundamental movements of walking, skipping, running, galloping and sliding taught rhythmically.

Miss Piper taught the grade-school children and the high school girls, each class having a physical education period of forty minutes.

Approximately 150 students are enrolled. Twenty-five percent of these are totally blind, and twenty-five percent have enough vision for sight-saving, which includes children with 20/70 to 20/200 vision with correction. The largest group is between these two—those who haven't enough sight for sight saving and print reading but who are not totally blind.

"A child who sees nothing but light and dark," says Miss Piper, "considers himself much more fortunate than one who sees nothing; but to the child in the sight saving class, the other two groups are the unfortunates."

The photographer reports that while he was arranging the equipment for the picture shown, a child ran by shouting, "Look, Miss Piper, look, I got my new eye!" "The little fellow seemed as excited over his new artificial eye as any other child would be with a new toy," said the photographer.

"My position at the Iowa School for the Blind offers the most interesting work I can think of," concluded Miss Piper. She will graduate from Iowa State Teachers College at the end of the summer quarter. She plans to return to the School for the Blind in the fall.

Seniors Tour the Campus

Senior Day, under the sponsorship of the Iowa Teachers First Club, saw approximately two hundred fifty high school seniors on the college campus, May 4.

The program, planned to enable the seniors to examine the facilities for education offered at Teachers College, featured movies of the campus, a pep assembly in the auditorium, general campus tours, activities including swimming, roller skating, stunts, and games.

The day was completed with a matinee dance after which the Frolic Finales, with selections from each of the the preceding Fun Frolic programs were given and the seniors were presented with a farewell snack.

Russell to Teach at Michigan

Myron E. Russell, associate professor of woodwind instruments, has accepted a position in woodwind ensemble work during the summer session at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Russell is president of the Iowa Music Educators' Association as well as the Iowa Band Masters Association and is director of the Teachers College band.

suggestion, encouragement and promotion of worthy college activities; the creation of a desire for best forms of journalism, and serving the readers through advertisements in the best manner possible."

Initiated in this year's College Eye were columns on the editorial page. Also initiated by the combined College Eye and Old Gold staffs was the revival of the annual press dinner with the "Hot Copy" dinner party on May 10.

Letters to the Editors

"Thanks for the Alumnus" . . .

West Chicago, Illinois . . . Every issue of the Alumnus seems to bring Iowa State Teachers College to us with more nostalgia. Even when we fail to express our appreciation, please rest assured that it brings us the news of schoolmates and teachers that we are hungry for. The recent issues with names of the men and women in service all over the world, and those who have given their lives are especially poignant. So, thanks again for what you are doing for all of us by keeping the Alumnus in the mail.

I am working now as librarian of our public library in West Chicago. It is very pleasant work. If you will be so good as to send me the View Book and the College Calendar, I will be glad to display them in the reading room. My motives are mixed—Illinois people need to know what a real teachers' college is like, a great many high school people seek my advice concerning their coming college careers, and I would love having the scenes of my Alma Mater where I can see them all the time.—Mrs. Emma Olson, B.A. '34.

The "Old Lady" Paddles . . .

New Guinea . . . The merging of the old and new civilization is vividly portrayed here in this section of New Guinea. . . .

Just as every American family in pre-war days enjoyed its Sunday automobile ride, so does every native family enjoy its daily canoe ride. The old lady paddles away industriously in the bow, while her off-spring is diligently applying the force in the stern. And sitting, or rather leaning, against four or five layers of cushions with his feet dangling in the water is the proud papa.

No Sunday back seat driving needed here, is there? Guess they know how to train their spouses.—Ens. Aaron Levine, B.A. '43.

Waiting Is Weary Business . . .

Western Pacific . . . I was pretty fortunate when we landed here on this "rock." We were supposed to get off the boat one day and we were ready and prepared to debark over the side. After waiting almost all day, word was sent out that we wouldn't land at all. With the usual complaining and griping, everyone went back to their bunks. Of course, most of us were mad as hornets because we had to carry all that stuff and all we did was to wait.

The following morning we prepared to debark and then were given the news that the Japs had pulled a raid in the very area that we were to go into. There were quite a few casualties. Imagine what might have happened had we gone in the night before.

I received a letter from a fellow TC'er, Jack Abramowitz, and he had some good news. He had been given a direct commission in the field.—Capt. Michael Goodman, B.A. '41.

Alumus of '97 Active in Research . . .

Washington D. C. . . . I noticed in the Alumnus that my classmate, Fred Dawson, class of 1890, died last August. Fred and I were close friends and sat in adjoining seats to hear Dr. Seerley deliver his lectures in psychology.

I am approaching my eightieth year and am in good health and actively engaged in industrial research work. My last contact with educational matters was in the early twenties when I was delivering lectures in the department of economics at the Catholic University in this city.—John O. Berkley B.Di. '97.

Stevens Has Ten From T. C. on Staff . . .

Columbia, Missouri . . . No doubt you are surprised to hear of my being here at Stephens College. . . . I have charge of the college paper "Stevens Life," teach four journalism classes and two communications classes.

The other night ten alumni of Teachers College who are here at Stephens got together for dinner and had a good chat about our Alma Mater. Here are the names of those present. Next time I'll bring my graflex and send you a picture of this illustrious clique in the "heart of Missouri:" Catherine Spooner, Eleanor Volberding, Mrs. Mae DePree, Ruth Johns, Kermit Hosch, Mrs. Inez Hosch, Melvene Draheim, Marjorie Momyer, Mrs. Madge Brock, and myself.

We really had a good time and plan to have another dinner before school closes in May.—Clarence W. Hach, B.A. '37.

Boogie-Woogie Chick-a-Biddy? . . .

Chicago, Illinois . . . Recently I wrote the registrar to transfer my credits to Northwestern University, where I am trying to complete the degree requirements in the Chicago Evening Division.

After leaving T. C., I taught art in the Indianola public schools and at Simpson College. In '29 I gave up teaching for commercial art, coming to Chicago where I designed decorative window backgrounds for department stores. . . . Later I became an advertising copy writer. . . . I spent three delightful years at Santa Catalina Island where I was concerned with writing advertising for the resort's tourist business. Naturally this has stopped now and I am back in Chicago concerned with the advertising of a variety of products.

Incidentally, a song for which I wrote the lyrics in collaboration with musician Sharon Pease (who writes the well-known Boogie-Woogie piano method books) has been published by Forster of Chicago and is now being heard on the networks. It's called the "Chicka-a-Biddy Boogie," and we're hoping, of course, that it will hit the Hit Parade. — George Taylor, Two year art course '26.

Reunion in Hospital

Philippine Islands . . . Greetings from the sunny shores of Luzon! Had the biggest surprise of my life two days ago—walked over to the Red Cross shack in our area and who should I come face to face to but T/Sgt. Walter Johnson, who played football at T.C. in '36, '37, and '38. Johnny is in our hospitable establishment for a stomach disorder. I'm trying to make sure he stays for a while so we can have some more sessions together rehashing old times!—Capt. Leo Kagan, B.S. '40, Army Medical Corps.

KXEL Assistant Resigns

Eunice Baumgartner of Cedar Falls, B.A. 1944, pictured at right on this page, has resigned from her position as assistant announcer and control operator of the college studios of KXEL to become English and speech instructor in the Knoxville high school.

Miss Baumgartner graduated from the College in November with a bachelor of arts degree with honors. While a student she was an active member of Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary educational fraternity, secretary and treasurer of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English group, and vice president of the Hamilton Speech club.

Dickinson Back From France

After three months overseas service in France, Arthur D. Dickinson has again resumed his duties as track coach and a member of the Iowa State Teachers College athletic department.

On leave of absence from the college from March 1, 1945, to June 7, 1945, Mr. Dickinson has been serving with a special service organization, the Athletic Administrative Staff School in Paris University, France. His duty was to train officers coming from the battlefronts, who after the training period, return to their units to set up schools for the athletic deployment program.

As a member of this volunteer group of civilian athletic leaders, Mr. Dickinson was permitted to travel in Scotland, England, France, Belgium and beyond the Rhine river in Germany.

Mr. Dickinson received the B.A. degree from Iowa State Teachers College, and his M.A. degree from the University of Iowa. He is a member of the National Basketball Coaches organization and the National Track Coaches of America. Mr. Dickinson now holds the position of associate professor in the Department of Physical Education for men.

Faculty Has Long-Time Record of Service

That the Teachers College faculty possesses an enviable record of long-time service is shown by a study made recently by I. H. Hart, director of the bureau of extension service, official archivist for the college, and Fred D. Cram, assistant professor of education associated with the extension service.

The tenure of service of the average faculty member has been steadily increasing since 1876. At the close of the school year 1943-1944 the average faculty member had been a member of the Teachers College staff for over eighteen years.

Among those who served Iowa State Normal School and Teachers College, D. Sands Wright holds the record for the longest tenure. Professor Wright, a member of the first faculty when the General Assembly transformed the buildings of the Orphans' Home into those of the Iowa State Normal School, served fifty-five years. Miss Anna McGovern, now living in California, was a member of the faculty for fifty-one years before her resignation. Miss Sarah M. Riggs had completed her fiftieth year before her death, while Miss Bertha L.

Patt, professor of art, celebrated her 50th anniversary of service at Teachers College this year. Charles A. Fullerton, professor of music, Ira S. Condit, professor of mathematics, Louis Begeman, professor of physics, and S. Freeman Hersey, associate professor of physics, all have a record of more than forty-five years of teaching.

Dr. E. J. Cable, with forty years of teaching, has the longest tenure of anyone now on the active list. Other faculty members with a record of over forty years, now emeritus, are Charles H. Bailey, professor of industrial arts, and Alison E. Aitchison, professor of geography.

Robert W. Getchell, professor of chemistry, has been in active service for thirty-seven years, while Charles S. Cory, registrar and examiner, and Lillian Lambert, professor of English, now with emeritus status, have served over thirty-five years.

The average period of service is expected to decrease in the near future, because of recent deaths of several of the faculty members and the appointment of new members to the faculty staff.

Faculty Members Resign

John Dietrich, instructor in art, has resigned to accept a position as professor of art at New Mexico State Teachers College, Silver City, New Mexico, where he will be director of a newly established applied arts department.

Mr. Dietrich is an authority on ceramics and a skilled craftsman in other materials including lapidary, leather, and silver. He is noted for his workmanship in the construction of archery bows and fishing flies.

John Horns, instructor in art, has accepted a position as professor of art and head of the department of fine arts at New Mexico Highlands University, Las Vegas.

Mr. Horns has been an instructor in the art department since 1936. His paintings have been exhibited throughout the state and have won a number of awards. He is one of the organizers of the Cedar Falls Art Association.

Dr. Max L. Durfee, health director at Teachers College, resigned his position here to accept a position as director of health service at the University of Oklahoma, Norman.

Dr. Durfee served as class medical adviser at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he had received his B.A., M.A., M.D., and his M.S.P.H. degrees, before coming to Teachers College. While here he organized the immunization program for freshman students against small pox and diphtheria and promoted a case-finding program for tuberculosis.

Professor Lambertson Dies

Floyd W. Lambertson, 53, professor of speech since 1930, died of a heart attack at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zellhoefer, near Hudson, June 3.

Dr. Lambertson College teams from such universities as Oxford, England and Edinburgh, Scotland. Students in his public speaking classes appeared in debates throughout the United States as well as Canada and Mexico. He was sponsor of the local chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary speech society.

Dr. Lambertson received the B.A. degree from Albion College, Albion, Michigan, the M.A. from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and his Ph.D. from the State University of Iowa. He served as principal of the Brimley high school, Brimley, Mich., assistant professor at Emporia Teachers College, Emporia, Kansas, and head of the speech department, Dakota Wesleyan University, Mitchell, South Dakota, prior to his appointment to the English department at Teachers College.

● Martin L. Grant, science department

Quinine Hunter Returns

"Two important events happened during the fourteen months that I was away from Teachers College," says Dr. Martin L. Grant, assistant professor of biology, when asked about his job in South America. "The first, of course, was the finding of stands of Cinchona trees, whose bark is the source of quinine; the second was the birth of our daughter, Lois Conchita, in November, 1944."

Since March, 1944, Dr. M. L. Grant has been field botanist associated with the Foreign Administration which is attempting to make a greater supply of quinine available for the armed forces. Dr. Grant, one of the seven botanists looking for Cinchona trees, which grow wild only in the northern Andes in Venezuela, Columbia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia and at the west edge of the Amazon Valley at altitudes of 4,000 to 9,000 feet, reports, "We found a fairly large number of trees, however not nearly enough to alleviate the shortage caused by the Japanese occupation of Java, the chief source of quinine."

After Dr. Grant and the crew located the trees, native crews were sent in to cut the stands, which were sent to New Jersey.

When questioned about the food available,

Dr. Grant admitted there was a plentiful supply of butter and meat. Also available were film, radios and other electrical appliances.

Dr. Grant's two older children, Gordon, 14, and Jean, 13, attended Spanish as well as Anglo-American schools.
